

You check ORC plans and rules to see if the idea is an activity that needs consent.

You contact ORC to talk it through with a Public Enquiries Officer.

ORC receives the application and checks assessment of effects and consideration of affected parties.

You prepare, pay for and lodge your application.

including tangata whenua. Assessment of cultural effects may be needed.

If complete, application is accepted for processing.

ORC determines

9

If not, move back to step 5.

> ORC checks with experts. If required, further information is requested.

scale of effects of proposed activity.

Affected parties are asked for written feedback

- Possible hearing to consider recommendation.

ORC considers all infomation in the application, looks at effects and decides next steps.

> Written approvals can help speed things up

Public Consent is advertised, public feedback sought.

- Possible pre-hearing meeting to discuss feedback
- Possible hearing to consider recommendation.

Non-Notified

ORC makes recommendation on proposal. Chance to review draft consents conditions.

13

Decision to grant or decline application made based on ORC plans, rules and scale of effects.

ORC may issue you an invoice for processing costs

